HARMON FOUND SAFE IN CRASH

Gridiron Hero, Reported Missing, Reaches U. S. Base from Jungle.

By The Associated Press

JUAN, PUERTO RICO, April 17—Headquarters of the Air Force announced today that Lieut. Thomas Dudley Harmon, reported April 14 to be missing in the South American jungle, has been found.

The All-America football player from Michigan crashed in a South American jungle, but the location was not further identified. Fate of other members of his crew also was not disclosed. Harmon, missing since April 8, reached a South American base.

The war department in Washington said today it has been advised of Harmon's escape from a plane crash in a South American jungle. It said he has reached a South American base. No details of the accident were available in the report reaching here from the Antilles war task force headquarters, in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

LANDON IN COLUMBUS FOR BRICKER VISIT

Comes to Ohio Today After Seeing Dewey in New York.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., April 17—Gov. Al M. Landon of Kansas comes here today for a visit with Gov. Bricker after expressing confidence Republicans will beat President Roosevelt's home state of New York in 1944. Bricker is regarded in some quarters as a possibility for the Republican presidential nomination.

The unsuccessful 1936 G.O.P. candidate for President spent an hour last night with Gov. Thomas Dewey, New York's first Republican chief executive in 20 years, what both termed a "social visit."

Landon stopped in Albany after New York City broadcast in which he urged a "real and actual functioning war council" to help the United States settle front problems, asserting:

"The chief administrative officials of the country must have some place where they can meet and settle their difficulties, so that they can go about their business of winning the war without having to maneuver for their own particular policies through public and wire-pulling."

In his Columbia broadcasting system address, Landon also pleaded for political unity behind the war effort, declaring this is not a "New Deal" war; this is not a Democratic war; it is not a Republican war; it is America's war!

U.S. RESPONSIBILITY CITED BY SENATOR

Ball of Minnesota Addresses Ohio Bar Association.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., April 17—U. S. Sen. Joseph H. Ball of Minnesota said that "the United States must duck its responsibility" in the post-war period.

Addressing the Ohio Bar association's spring meeting, Ball said yesterday "it will be a much harder fight to win a lasting peace than victory" in the present crisis.

Ball, co-author of a "Win the War" resolution now pending in the Senate, asserted congress would act immediately to remove fears in the minds of our allies that the United States will not collaborate and shoulder its responsibilities in the past-war period.

As a matter of fact," he declared, "the United States can't afford to be responsible."

The senator related that most of the leaders with whom he had talked expressed a lack of faith in a lasting peace.

"Men with faith in the war, the last peace act now," he said, "the tendency after this is to get the American people to the most adventurous and impossible to fight the next war."

MARION CO. WAR BOND DRIVE TOTAL

Goal $2,533,000.00
Pledged To Date $1,483,506.00
Yet To Be Raised $1,049,494.00

National drive for total of 13 billion dollars to continue until May 1.

COUNTY BOND TOTAL RISES

Yesterday's Sales Listed at $206,383; Individual Buyers Numerous.

Marion county made a $206,383 dent in its Second War Loan goal in sales yesterday, boosting the total to date to $1,483,506, Chairman Fred E. Guthery reported this morning. This is more than 57 per cent of the $2,533,000 goal.

Mr. Guthery today expressed pleasure over two phases of the drive this morning, one the steady progress made in boosting the total sales and, second, the support that individual buyers are giving the campaign.

Although corporation purchases of large amounts have swelled the goal substantially, Mr. Guthery commented that individual buyers are showing commendable response when called on by drive workers.

"We've been getting letters and phone calls from mothers and fathers in all parts of the country whose sons saw Tom shortly before he disappeared," Mrs. Harmon said. "They've been kind and we thank them very much."

Although Tom's father is 70 and his mother 67, they bore the strain of the long wait for news of their sons and sisters of the famous halfback now at home.

Corporations contributed to yesterday's total, one purchase amounting to $100,000 and two others $30,000 each.

"The response is splendid," Mr. Guthery said. "There are very few reports of any one refusing to buy a bond when a drive worker makes a call. The size of the purchases also is gratifying, because it is obvious that in many cases the buyers are going the limit and buying the biggest bond they are financially able to handle. When people make sacrifices to buy,

RED ARMY LAUNCHES KUBAN DELTA DRIVE

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, April 17—The Red Army has opened a new, slow-going but thorough drive in the Kuban delta of the Caucasus, with strong artillery and bomber preparation preceding an infantry advance into German positions, the Russians said today, but the push was momentarily slowed as gains were consolidated and new operations prepared.

The Germans still have a narrow foothold in Novorossiisk, the former Russian naval base, and along a strip of Black sea coast extending into the Taman peninsula.

Red Star, the Army newspaper, reported rain, mud and a stiff defense by the Germans made attacks extremely difficult.

In yesterday's opening battle, Red Star said, Russian Stormovik bombers and Soviet artillery kept up a steady pounding of the Germans' rear positions while the infantry fought its way into the German basic points.

The Nazis lost 600 dead and 19 men in the battle, the newspaper's dispatch said.

Pvt. Ralph C. Selby, son of Mrs. Zenetta B. Selby of Delaware, was listed among those wounded in action in the Pacific area.

The list included six Ohio Army officers and 49 enlisted men wounded in action in the European, North African, Pacific and Southwest Pacific areas.

U. S. Bombers Sink Two Ships and Damage Two.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, April 17—Remnants of a Japanese convoy fled northward from Weewak, New Guinea, today out of range of four engined allied bombers which sank two 8,000 ton enemy ships, forced 5,000-ton vessel to be beached and rendered still another 8,000-ton ship unseaworthy.

Despite the destructive pounding dealt the nine-ship convoy starting at dusk Thursday and extending into yesterday's daylight hours, it was considered possible the Japanese succeeded in landing some supplies and men during the night they were in harbor at Weewak.

U. S. Bombers Sink Two Ships and Damage Two.

By The Associated Press

London, April 17—More than 600 bombers roared out in moonlight last night to strike heavily at Mannheim, Ludwigshafen and Pilsen, the latter in German-occupied Czechoslovakia, the home of the Skoda munitions works—in what the air ministry today called "the biggest night operation this year." Fifty-five planes are missing in the raids, it was announced.

Thirty-seven of the planes were missing from the Pilsen mission which the air ministry said was accomplished by Lancasters and Halifaxes "in great force."

Pilsen also is the home of the world-famous Pilsen brewery. Mannheim and Ludwigshafen are on the Rhine in southwestern Germany, connected by a bridge across the river.

Another force of Wellingtons, Stirlings and Halifaxes attacked the armament works centered in that area and 18 bombers are missing from that raid, it was announced.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

KATHARINE's eyes mirrored the memory of Hal Meredith was blotted from her mind. But Hal never had forgotten or failed to care for the woman he had won his first love. The later tragedy of his erased life attempted revenge on Katherine, and the inexplicable neighbors of Katherine by her husband had served only to fan the flames of his love with a consuming passion.

Always, after Lucia Meredith's death, Katherine had the heavy knowledge that Jack's neglect and absence became too great a cross to bear. Hal was ready to lay his wealth, fame and undying love at her feet, and until the ride of Jack's behavior had been solved by the discovery of Ruth Hayes' treachery, I had wondered whether Katherine might not eventually yield to Hal's fervent though silent wooing.

But since I told her about Ruth Hayes, I had been almost convinced that Katherine's heart was wholly in her husband's keeping while that love, that pity or desire spurred her determination to find her husband and help him in his painful task.

That conviction was strengthened by what I saw when, after

A child born on this day may have exceptional abilities, promising unusual adventures and experiences in life, with romance and public acclaim dominant.

For Monday, April 19

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a rather contradictory state of affairs. A decisive breaking away from old stale or crystallized conditions may make way for sound and enduring prospects, yet a tendency to prodigal or extravagant investment is shown.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a year in which they will find firm foundations growing under their feet, after a period of stagnation. There may be a romantic advantage wherein happiness and sentimental gratification are assured.

A child born on this day may have excellent character traits, with love of beauty and culture, on which it may incline to invest its means rather than in more sordid pursuits.

about ten minutes, Katherine came to the door and beckoned me into the sitting room. It was clear to me that there had been no emotional storm.

Hal Meredith sprang forward and gripped my hand with a fervent "Thank you," grateful for having been given those minutes alone with Katherine, then broke into clear, brisk speech.

"Katherine agrees with me," he said, "that your proposal to let your father know of this is the only possible solution. When I left the room, I was a consumer of my present, and that Katherine might be very annoyed at having me hear some of the things Hal might say."

"No, my dear!" I told her. "I cannot. But I am sure you do not need to fear any emotional outburst on Hal's part, for I already have told him how things stand between you and Jack."

"Of course you are right," she said as she rose. "And I will go in and see him at once."

Warns Katherine

"I must tell you first," I said, with a detaining hand on her arm, "that what Hal has to tell you concerns Ruth Hayes. She went to see him at his office, and he will tell you what was said, but I thought it right to warn you."

"Thank you," she said quietly. "I am glad you did." Then her face hardened. "Enter the wardeness woman," she said, as she left the room.

I settled down and tried to read, but gave it up, still trying to visualize the interview going on in the next room.

For Hal Meredith and Katherine had been sweethearts when he was a young intern and she a student nurse in the same hospital, before devilish deception by the daughter of Hal's benefactor, an old physician of the hospital, had trapped Hal into marriage with the older girl. He had been Katherine's first love, and I knew her heart, and her pride had suffered sorely. Then she had met and married my brother-cousin, Jack Ricketts, and for a time even

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Beveridge Plan

THE MEDICAL profession has quite a stake in the social plans for post-war reconstruction. An instance of this is in the Beveridge Report for Great Britain.

Sir William Beveridge is a man of great heart and great kindness, who would like to have all his fellow beings entirely happy. In his plans for social reconstruction he has provision for medical services so that every person, irrespective of his income, shall "achieve positive health, the prevention of disease, relief of all sickness. This is to be done by rendering available to every individual all necessary medical service, both domestic and institutional."

Every doctor is to be assured a regular wage paid by the state, a basic salary with additions for special qualifications and length of service.

Anyone can see that on the surface, plausibly, this is a plan which would iron out many inequalities. It would prevent the spread of disease, and it is the state's business to see that every citizen has medical care.

What it does not take into account is that the fundamental material with which any medical system deals consists of human beings. Human beings are unpredictable. If they were all machines, Sir William's ideas would apply perfectly. But in rendering these starry-eyed ideas, one wonders whether Sir William has ever associated with human beings in his life.

There is nothing logical about human beings. When they get sick, they are just as likely to believe what is told them by the corner druggist or a witch doctor or a friend who had a friend who knew a fellow who heard from another fellow about a cure, as they are to believe in the very best doctor in their city.

Furthermore, they do not all have diseases which can be immediately treated by a specific remedy. Some of them are sick because they took a wrong mental twist in youth. Some of them are sick because they can't stand the impact of the world. Some of them are sick for reasons that have nothing to do with germs or toxins.

In treating this enormous group, the public health doctor paid by the state is at a total disadvantage. He wants to walk into a house and collects his fee and then walk out again as fast as possible and go to the next patient. He doesn't want to sit and gossip. Most patients want to talk things over at great length and are willing to pay a fee for that privilege. The service the doctor gives them is intangible but real.

A distinction should be made between medical service that can properly fall under the head of public health and that which can fall under the head of private practice. The prevention of typhoid fever properly should be turned over to public health authorities. It has been definitely proved to be effective, if requires a minimum amount of technical knowledge for its performance in any one human being and no real money value is involved in its cost. But treating a human soul is not the function of a public health authority; it is the function of the physician-priest.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q. P. R.: What is the cause of stomach ulcers or sores in the mouth? Can you give a good home remedy to one who has had them quite steadily for the past four years?

Answer: There is no connection between ulcer of the stomach and canker sores of the mouth. An old-fashioned remedy for canker sore is to place a small amount of gold seal root, powdered, in the mouth, keeping it there for a longer than usual because of the heavy volume of mail.

U. S. Newspapers Cut Consumption of Paper

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, April 17.—Reports to the American newspaper publishers association compiled today indicated newspapers used during March 5.5 per cent less newsprint than in the corresponding month of 1941 and 8.3 per cent less than in March of 1941.

Daily newspapers reporting to the ANPA consumed 237,111 tons this March compared with 251,042 in March a year ago and 258,518 in March, 1941.

Use of newsprint—save for small dailies and weeklies using less than 25 tons a month—is restricted by the war production board effective Jan. 1, last, to the amount required to produce the net paid circulation of 1941, plus 3 per cent for spoilage.

Meat No. 1 Problem On Ration List, Poll Shows

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., April 17.—Of all rationed products, the one which American families find hardest to cut down on a meat. That is what a representative cross-section of the population from coast to coast told voters, ergo, for the Institute in a survey this week.

The second thing people find hardest to give up is meat, and the third is gasoline for their automobile.

To representative families in all

GIRAUD HOPES TO LEAD ARMY HOME

Has 300,000 Men Under Arms for Invasion.

By the Associated Press
ALGIERS, April 17.—Gen. Henri Giraud hopes to lead an army of 300,000 Frenchmen in invading a portion of Europe before next fall, rationing not being effective, indicated that during the middle and upper classes, 90 per cent ate meat, fish, or poultry daily, and among the lower economic group 75 per cent.

Now, the order of the items named by Americans as hardest to cut down on:

HARDEST TO CUT DOWN ON

1. Meat
2. Coffee
3. Gasoline
4. Sugar
5. Butter
6. Canned goods
7. Shoes
8. Fuel oil
9. Tires
10. Cheese

It is interesting to note that a large percentage of food items, the people more than lack of non-food products. Among the first six items, all but one are food items.

That is undoubtedly because shortage of fuel affects everyone, whereas restrictions on gasoline and tires directly affect only those families owning automobiles, and shortage of fuel oil it will only by the household who heat with oil. They constitute about one-sixth of the total.

The fact that shortage of gasoline seems to bother fewer people than other shortages provides interesting confirmation of a survey which the Institute conducted among car owners more than a year ago. This revealed the startling fact that one-half of all car owners said that if necessary they could give up their automobiles without undue hardship.

While the hardship caused by gasoline rationing varies according to areas, it is noteworthy that the country as a whole places gasoline only third in importance in today's poll.

German Pilot Picks Red Cross Sign as Target

By HAROLD V. BOYLE
By the Associated Press

IN NORTHERN TUNISIA, April 14—(Delayed)—Dinner had just been finished at 9 p. m. tonight when a British cook stuck his head in the tent and said politely and with the utmost calm:

"Would you mind turning off your light, sir? The Germans are dropping flares outside and the bombs will be along any moment now."

As he finished speaking, a bomb whistled and before the eight men in the tent could throw themselves to the floor, the explosive struck in the vicinity with a roar that bounced echoes from the surrounding mountains. Everyone was shaken by the concussion but none was hurt. All poured from the tent and began scattering in search of slit trenches.

Only one plane was in the moonlit sky but its drone seemed to fill the whole world as it swooped down to drop more bombs by the light of flares. Glancing up, one could not see the plane itself but flashes were clearly visible from a number of objects plunging toward the earth.

As we dropped to the ground, a second large bomb lit in the ploughed field 250 yards from us and vibrated the earth like a heavy drum. Before we could get to our feet, a number of anti-personnel bombs—deadly explosives which shower the area with flying shrapnel—began to explode a few seconds apart in a series of orange flashes.

A group of Britons nearby said there was only one casualty. A sergeant was struck in the knee by heavy shrapnel.

Walking back, we passed a small cluster of Tommies who pointed out where cannon shells from the plane had ripped across a huge red cross sign, painted on the ground to warn enemy aviators. The cannon had ripped three gaping holes in an adjoining tent.

"It must have been an accident," one British hospital worker said charitably.

"If it was an accident, it is funny that he hit the only thing he could possibly see," said another. "Look how that sign stands out."

The sign was 45 feet square. It shone like a beacon in the bright moonlight. Only the pilot can say whether he aimed at the Red Cross marker, but all his bombs and cannon shells fell within a great triangle formed by three huge and clearly-marked red cross signs and hospitals. Two hospital tents containing patients are in the area which has no military establishments and no combat personnel.

Machinists' Lodge Buys Sixth Bond

A class of 24 new members was initiated at a meeting of Roosevelt Lodge No. 1281, International Association of Machinists, A. F. of L. affiliate, Thursday night in the Central Labor Union hall. It was voted to purchase another $1,000 War bond. This will be the sixth bond to be purchased by the lodge.

A Lehman talked on the labor publication and Elmer Werner talked on group hospitalization insurance. A report was given by Don Whetro, business agent of the lodge. Reports were given by representatives from the Osgood Co., Decker Pressed Steel, General Excavator Huber Manufacturing Co., Amo Expansion Bolt Co., Wilson Behrman Co., Marion Metal Products Co. of Marion and the Baileys Engineering Co. of Peoria.

Manpower Problem Discussed

Solution More Local Than National, State C. of C. Official Tells Marion Business Group.

Manpower may be a national time for women to do work that problem but the solution must be had in the local community. They may not work longer a national program. Ralph E. Ward, director of industrial relations for the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, told Marion Chamber of Commerce yesterday, "I take a day off every month to travel around the state." He said he had

Importance of Foremen

Regarding a reporter's question, he said the war effort has created a need for thousands of new foremen—men who are the connecting link between management and the workers. Too many of them lack the ability to keep their workers satisfied and productive well, and this leads to discontent, he declared. Again he emphasized the importance of training programs that would produce good foremen as well as help workers to do better jobs.

He delved into some of the more intricate problems of plant management, including job classification setup, which he said more industries will be forced to adopt as a result of the wage freeze order.

Regarding the 48-hour work week, he declared the order provides that in critical labor areas the 48-hour week will be put into effect if possible, but added the administration of the order is largely up to the regional WMC heads. He said it doesn't mean that everybody in those areas will work 48 hours a week but principally those whose extra work will benefit the war effort.

Explicit interpretations about this order simply don't exist, he said.

Possibility of Relief

He predicted some relief for employees if the Ohio legislature passes a proposed plan relaxing the women and child labor laws of the state. He explained several phases of the proposal, one of which would let women between the ages of 12 and 21 work as late as 11 p. m. instead of the 10 p. m. curfew.

When someone asked where information could be obtained about job classification procedure, he said the war manpower commission had good material on this matter.

He urged his listeners not to be too impressed by the estimated manpower requirements that keep coming out of Washington. He said the estimates have proved higher than actual needs, on the basis of past experience, and said the national figures were of little importance anyhow because local communities rather than Washington were going to have to find most of their own answers to local manpower problems.

Mr. Ward was introduced by Cutler McGrew, Chamber president.

Republicans Accept Responsibility

THE duty of the opposition party to make certain that nothing is overlooked or neglected has caused Republicans in the house of representatives to organize a food committee. Its successful performance is guaranteed by the leadership of Rep. Thomas A. Jenkins of Ironon as chairman. Rep. Jenkins is one of the ablest members of Ohio's congressional delegation.

As outlined, the Republican food committee's program will concentrate on fact finding. From the facts it will furnish Republicans with material to use in congressional debate and possibly to develop a party alternative to the food policy being followed by the Roosevelt administration.

That policy can be characterized only by the adjective "expedient." The Roosevelt administration has done what it seemed necessary to do at the time, with a minimum of planning. Last summer, when food production should have been stressed equally with war production, the administration still was clinging to its previous idea that production needed to be curbed. This summer, of course, expediency calls for production, but even now there is no comprehensive program.

The minority party is under obligation to challenge the majority at its weakest points; that is the two-party system. Certainly one of the weakest points that has appeared yet is food production. There is no lack of opportunity for Rep. Jenkins and his committeemen to suggest improvements.

This was a week of perplexity on Ohio's home front, with patriotic citizens not knowing whether duty called them to keep their Victory Garden spades in action or to drag out their snow shovels.

A War Job Well Done

FROM our observation of the Hanley Engineering Service's record of war production operations in Prospect we'd say that it deserves recognition as one of the most remarkable of the entire list of achievements in Ohio up to this time. In all probability it will hold that distinction when the final history of war industry in the state is compiled.

Within less than nine months the Hanley organization turned out 104 fireboats for the U. S. Coast Guard, fulfilling a contract that we understand totaled more than a million dollars. The company, headed by Mr. Hanley had no one building large enough to accommodate production and it became necessary to scatter operations through seven comparatively small structures throughout the village. Despite this obvious handicap, the work was accomplished with speed and efficiency that probably outranks the records of some war plants throughout the country which have been virtually without obstacles or problems such as those Mr. Hanley and his associates had to contend with.

To them and their workmen should go commendation and congratulations for an admirable demonstration of able and conscientious wartime industrial service.

Rommel showed his heels to the field in a 1,500-mile run, has also managed to stay ahead in 10 and 30-mile dashes and it looks as though he'd better be prepared to display some speed and endurance as a long-distance swimmer.

Holding That Line

SECOND thought on President Roosevelt's call for stabilization that stabilizes—his line-holding policy for fighting inflation—is leaving some of the wishful thinkers suspiciously hopeful.

They believe ways and means may be found of staying within the letter of the presidential order without really making the temporary sacrifices that are implicit in foregoing higher wage rates, higher prices, higher profits—the inflationary trap.

The hand may be quicker than the eye. Thus, it is widely assumed that John Lewis is going to get a handsome wage boost for his United Mine Workers, regardless of stabilization. Current likelihood is that miners may draw pay for time spent reaching their work in the mine; it would give them an increase in their wages and all within the letter of the stabilization order. There are dozens of similar possibilities. Phil Murray, CIO president, is hopeful of widespread pay adjustments to correct sub-standards of living, for instance. Farm bloc strategists are similarly hopeful of finding ways to obtain higher prices for farm commodities without seeming to violate the President's line-holding policy. American resourcefulness does not stop with baling wire repairs on farm machinery.

All these artful dodges are, of course, in direct violation of an anti-inflationary policy, as will be demonstrated if they are permitted. The test of inflation is not what someone says is happening, but what is happening. This country has had more inflation than anyone in authority has been willing to talk about and will have a lot more if its labor leaders, farm leaders and their friends in politics get their heads together to boost wages and prices under cover, in the hope that the victims of their scheming—the fixed income class—will never miss a few more dollars here and there.

Food Conference Can't Be Both a Mass Meeting and Secret Parley.

By WALTER LIPPmann

NEW YORK, April 17.—The question now is, whether the pre-arranged food conference, the 17th, may be opened in the pre-Mediterranean effort to combat the Axis. It is possible, but inconceivable, that it is to have a meeting in the United States, where the United Nations are represented. The object is to have the meeting be at a secret place, as far removed from the public as possible, as, for example, the church, or even the hotel, or even as the location of the United Nations country. If the President, in other words, is trying to have a large mass meeting as if it were a small executive committee. His method of accomplishing this possible thing is to bar the newspaper men in the hope that there will then be a secret mass meeting. It cannot be done. If it is a meeting, it cannot be secret. It will leak news in all directions, and it is therefore a mistake to exclude the responsible and trained correspondents. If, on the other hand, there are matters which have to be dealt with secretly, as in war times there may well be, then it is a mistake to call a great advertised international conference. For secret matters the ordinary channels of diplomacy and of the interallied boards are ever so much more efficient.

DIFFICULT PROBLEM
There is a problem here to which it is not easy to see an altogether satisfactory solution. It is the very old problem, raised to the international level, of how to combine the advantages of wide representation and open deliberation with the need of prompt, decisive action.

Experience shows, I think, that international conferences are useful only if, before they are convened, the interested governments have reached an agreed program. The big meeting is useful to give public sanction to the agreement and to provide opportunities of personal contact.

Jobs for Fighting Men

Setup To Provide Post-Service Employment Functioning.

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MACHINERY to assure a job when war is functioning. Many men discharged for disability already have gone back to fight on America's production lines.

Not long ago, an Indiana steel manufacturer wrote to the veterans' employment division of United States employment service:

"We have established an office on the second floor of the (Blank) Bank building. Any of your veterans who can climb up those steps to make application will be employed. Climbing the steps is about the only physical examination that we require."

The employment service of the war manpower commission, one of a group of organizations working on re-employment of returning disabled and planning for the task of getting jobs for men still in the fighting fronts, says this is typical of many American manufacturers.

In the files of the service there are comparatively few application cards representing veterans (of all wars) who are hunting jobs.

How does this compare with the days of World War I?

"There is every reason to believe," said O. D. Hollenbeck, chief of the veterans' employment service in the Manpower Review recently, "that both federal and state governments are in a much better position now to deal effectively with problems of rehabilitation than at the end of the last war."

The smoke of Pearl Harbor had hardly cleared away when the President took action toward settling the casualties of war and industry for useful occupations. They followed a conference which included officials of the Army and Navy, Coast Guard, national resources planning board, veterans' administration, social security board, selective service, the Army and Navy, Red Cross, the veterans' administration and the vocational rehabilitation division of the U. S. office of education are turned.

The selective service, which geared the works for getting men into uniform, now is striving to reverse the process by paving the way to jobs for men already discharged, or about to be released because of disability, and for those still in there fighting.

Cards to be filled out as a basis of an occupational record are sent to men convalescing in hospitals, awaiting discharge, and it is planned to make the service available to all returning service men.

At the hospital, a Red Cross worker explains to a man that under the selective service act he is entitled to get his old job or one of equal seniority and pay provided he is physically able and provided that the status of his employer has not changed in such a way as to make such placement unreasonable.

He also is told that the act provides that the government will aid him to obtain a new position if his old one is no longer available.

Men who require training are told of training facilities open to them, such as those directed by the veterans' administration or by the office of education.

Finally, the men are informed that right back in their own towns or in other places they may care to go to, there are re-employment committees associated with local draft boards to help guide them.

Another illustration:

A sailor was blown off the deck of the Arizona and badly burned. His wounds healed, but he was left in such a shocked condition that his hands shook continuously. When he returned home, the employment service sent him out on a couple of jobs, but he could not carry on.

Finally, veterans' representative took him to a small machine shop where there was a punch and shear machine in a secluded corner.

It was Tuesday, April 17, 1923. An official statement from the White House disclosed that President Harding was in agreement with Judge E. H. No statement was made, however, regarding the president's attitude toward proposals for eliminating immigration restrictions and lifting limits in more workmen from Europe.

Following a conference at the White House between President Harding and Senator Cummings of Iowa, chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, it became known that the administration would support proposed amendments to the transportation act requiring compulsory consolidation of the country's railways into a few great systems.

THE MARINE corps correspondents do not attempt to compete with regular newspaper correspondents. On the contrary, they cooperate with them as much as possible, but they are supposed to write marine and also navy news and human interest stories on subjects that the regular correspondents may overlook.

Then, too, marines are stationed in many places not deemed important enough to warrant the presence of regular correspondents and the combat correspondents send out stories from these places.

From South Pacific points, the combat correspondents stuff goes by plane to Pearl Harbor, where it is looked over by officers and possibly censored, then relayed to Washington where it is released through the national department to the press associations and news papers which can use it or throw it away, as they see fit.

He says the longest single story he sent out ran 20 pages of copy, which is practically a novel, and covered a considerable period of exciting action.

"I got a good play on it in the newspapers, he remarked proudly.

There were five combat correspondents on Guadalcanal before Hurlbut left, though he was the only one there for a spell. He is not acting as technical adviser on a movie that is being made from his friend Richard Tregaskis' story, "Guadalcanal Diary." Hurlbut says it is a most faithful depiction of events there.

Jim Hurlbut Gives the Facts on New Kind of Leatherneck, the U. S. Marine Correspondent

By DAMON RUNYON

JIM HURLBUT, the first marine combat correspondent on Guadalcanal, landing with the second wave of the marines, told me something of the unusual functions of the new type of fighting newspapermen.

A combat correspondent is an enlisted man moved with combat troops, takes part in the "C" men, then hustles back to his headquarters and base and his story. There are about 80 marine corps combat correspondents scattered all over the globe. They are stationed wherever there are marines. A few are over in England and Ireland "overing" detachments of marines there.

Gen. Deniz, a fire-eating, thunderous-voiced man of the old school, who was brought out of retirement to head the publicity department of the marines, thought up the combat correspondent. The idea was never so successful. I understand that the army and navy war similar crews. The combat correspondents are specially trained for their service, but most of them had newspaper background before entering the war.

They must be enlisted men, though Jim Hurlbut is now a Lieutenant and is on special duty, and they must go through boot camp, like every marine. A man, I say, 3-A may apply for service as a combat correspondent.

AFTER an examination by marine officers he may apply to his draft board for reclassification to 1-A, perhaps making certain waivers, whereupon he is inducted into the marine corps and placed in boot camp training with the directors of the combat correspondents keeping an eye on him until he has finished. Then they ask him.

He is issued a tiny portable typewriter, paper, carbon and pencils, all in a nice box. Then he is in the combat correspondent business, except that he is also issued a rifle and the other accoutrements of the enlisted man, and has to fight. In fact, about the only favor extended him in recognition of his journalistic duty's exemption from the ordinary duties of the enlisted men, such as guard duty and kitchen police. I suppose this will be disappointing news to certain city editors who would love to think of some of their reporters peeling potatoes in between assignments.

He wears the same uniform as the enlisted man, with no distinguishing insignia, not even the "C" worn by civilian correspondents. Jim Hurlbut says that on Guadalcanal the civilian correspondents usually dispensed with the band, too, inasmuch as they were also generally in the hot spots. There was a feeling the Japs might not be advised that the "C" wearers were non-combatants and use the letter a target.

THE MARINE corps correspondents do not attempt to compete with regular newspaper correspondents. On the contrary, they cooperate with them as much as possible, but they are supposed to write marine and also navy news and human interest stories on subjects that the regular correspondents may overlook.

5 1-4 Billions To Go in Bond Campaign

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The government today sought takers for $5 billion dollars in war bonds, with all the rest of the $2 billion dollar drive apparently safely tucked away in Uncle Sam's pocket.

But that looked likely to be hardest of all to raise.

Treasury spokesmen said the secret of success for the three-week campaign which started Monday lay in selling that sum to the general public and other non-banking sources.

They said thus far the average citizen had bought only $20 million dollars worth of bonds—the popular E, F and G kind intended for the small investor.

Figures released so far disclosed a total of $5,253,000,000 in bonds sold. Of that sum the banks have taken $2,100,000,000 in 7% per cent certificates of indebtedness and $400,000,000 in discount bills.

Banks were limited in their purchase of the certificates to the first three days of the drive. Purchase of the discount bills is a continuous bank performance and will go on through the campaign.

Mr. Sweeney's appearance on the program was planned as a surprise by the commander.

James E. Messenger announced a meeting of the General Memorial Day committee at the Dugout Thursday evening, April 22 at 8 o'clock.

have entered its fourth stage on the $797,408,344 appropriation after an attempt to cut an additional $100,000 in farm incen- tives. There was hope, in passage. Representative (D-N.Y.) proposed the plan $300,000,000 provided for variation and similar plan lost on a 121-31 tele-enate passed and sent to the yesterday legislation for continuation of the $600,000 currency stabilization after eliminating a proposal to extend President Roosevelt's power to devalue the dollar.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) led a group of Republicans and Democrats who opposed extension beyond June 30 of the presidential monetary power first granted Mr. Roosevelt in 1934. The President then cut the gold content of the dollar to about 89 cents. In terms of the old dollar, he still has authority to decrease it to 50 cents.

Senate Acts Speedily
The Senate acted speedily, after Senator Taft argued that the current $13,000,000 war loan campaign would be helped if purveyors were assured their bonds could not depreciate in value.

Congress sent to President Roosevelt's desk a measure appropriating $26,100,000 to finance farm labor recruiting, a step designed to relieve the agricultural manpower shortage. The measure provides $13,050,000 for payments to the states for recruiting, training and supervising farm laborers. The rest would go to cover the cost of importing workers from Canada, South and Central American countries and nearby islands. Final congressional action came yesterday with senate adoption of a conference report.

Congress has been asked to launch two new investigations.

One, proposed by Representative C. W. Coffey (D-Wash), would establish a joint 10-member committee to study the government's part in developing huge power projects both at home and in other countries.

Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) asked the Senate to investigate dissemination and control of information by federal agencies, claiming that "public decisions must be based upon complete public information."

O'Mahoney said his resolution was prompted by announcement that reporters would be barred from most sessions of the forthcoming United Nations food conference and by recent resignations of reporters in the office of war information.

Harding Gridders To Meet Seniors in Practice Game To Climax Spring Training

Next Year's Team Will Have Chance To Prove Metal in Contest with Players Who Graduate This Year.

Harding High school's prospective 1943 senior football squad will play its first real test when it travels to the President's field at the Harding stadium yesterday, Monday afternoon.

The Pres' underdogs went through polishing up drills at last night's practice. Coach Vic Durrin is pleased to have 50 boy players—four seniors and general students. Durrin is in charge of the preparations of the team for Monday's intrasquad game. The seniors apparently have no fears but are employing one all-out-all-for-one mentality.

Durrin is reasonably sure of his starting eleven, which would include two juniors, or next year's seniors, and two sophomores, next year's junior. Only the center position is causing Durrin and his mentor, Joe Petrich, Plain Beach, aggressive coaches, would have been a cinch-starter for the impact-back position but a core of merely gives him status, questionable appearance. If Beach does not recover by Monday, Durrin probably will start Durrin, a Central freshman. Durrin has shown initiative and fire in spring workouts which warrant him no more consideration for Beach's job.

Other Positions

The line is more of a beat-trust this year than forward walls of other campions. At the tackle posts especially are the boys heavy in comparison with former Harding linemen. Dillinger weighs around 100, while Orth is a 200-pounder. Lust and Price are both stocky boys but the ends are smaller.

The seniors' lineup is a mystery. Harold Jenkins, all-Ohio halfback; from Inst. fall's team, and Don Kay, all-state tackle, will probably be on hand. Also, Wirt Ruhl, now a sailor at the Great Lakes Naval Station in Chicago, is expected to be home on leave for the game. Ruhl played some hard-running and hard-blocking football at a halfback slot for the Presidents last year. Bob Diven, 1912 first string guard, probably will not play because of injuries. Lee Harvey, Harding all-N.C. fullback last year, is in the army.

BEN HOGAN LEADS TEXAS VICTORY OPEN

And He Helps Sell $2,300,000 In War Bonds.

By The Associated Press
DALLAS, April 17—Texas' victory golf open has turned into a two-man show featuring Ben Hogan and his new employer, Uncle Sam.

Hogan, a buck private in the Army, complained because his game was rusty, but there was plenty of sparkle in that 87 he posted to lead yesterday's opening round. The tournament closes with another 18 holes today.

Ben's boss, Uncle Sam, pocketed more than $2,300,000 in war bonds at an auction last night. The ball Ben used to get his 67 went for $100,000, and a ball autographed by Bobby Jones fetched another $100,000, and A. J. Rice of Dallas hired David Goldman, Dallas amateur golfer, to caddy for him for $270,000.

There were plenty of low scores. Seventeen bettered par 36-37-72 and Hogan was five under. Ben recently entered the Army and was sent to Tarrant Field, Fort Worth. His first orders were to go to Dallas and play in the victory open.

and will not be at his accustomed morning post come Monday.

Play on Practice Field

The inter-squad Monday will be played on the Harding practice field, immediately north of the stadium, at 1:30 p.m. The regular playing field will be in a state of grace and has just been planted.

Joe Harding spring drills for 1943 will end Tuesday, April 20, in an intra-squad game. Durrin plans to give the second, third, and fourth strengtheners an opportunity for some game experience today. The 50 boys, probably 40, will meet of the action in the intrasquad scrimmage.

The practices began March 25, with about 70 prospective gridironites turned out. However, because of the severity and difficulty of the training routine, that number has been cut to around 50. Many of the boys found their physical stamina was not sufficient to undergo such tough workouts. Durrin points out that if a boy cannot stand the calisthenics and gymnasias in practice he would have no chance in a rough, 48-minute high school game.

Many of the footballers are expected to compose the nucleus of the Harding baseball team. Baseball practice will start around April 27, immediately following the spring vacation. Since track is cut out for the duration, the Harding gridders will use the diamond spot to keep in condition during the off-months.

Here Are Records Track Contestants Will Try To Beat

Record books of the Marion county annual track and field meet show that this year's thin-clads will have to do some swift running and high jumping at the meet at Prospect, May 8 to top marks set by former county trackmen.

There is no boy in this year's meet that is a record holder in the high school events. However several cinder artists are carryovers from last season's event, where they came close to the meet records, but could not surpass them. This year, some athletes like Butler of Marion, Carl of Green Camp, and Dean Cusick of Pleasant are expected to equal or shatter the meet records.

If this year's meet corresponds to the events of 1941 and 1942, there will be several holders of new marks. Last year, four new records were set. In 1941, there was one other than the aged Al Simmons. Now in his day Simmons was quite some pumpkin. He could nudge the ball with the best of them. But his day was many moons ago.

Following is the list of the Marion county track meet records with the event, the participant, and the year of the record listed:

1940 3d. high hurdles, McFadden, 100; 1d. dash, Kaelber, Wadsworth, 10.3.

1941 2d. dash, Kaelber, Wadsworth, 25.2.

1941 100 yd. dash, Kaelber, Wadsworth, 10.3.

JAPS REPORTED STRONGER THAN EVER IN KISKA

Pilots Report Island Defenses Enlarged.

By The Associated Press

A FAR WESTERN BASE IN THE ANDREWAN ISLANDS, ALASKA, March 31—(Delayed)—

The Japanese are "stronger than ever on Kiska and Attu," returning army pilots reported after bombing the enemy bases in the Aleutians for the 30th time in March at 23-foot elevation.

This thirteenth raid boosted the all-month high to 320 tons of explosive dropped on Kiska and Attu during March. Eleventh Bomber Command figures showed.

March heralded the opening of a mighty spring offensive to eradicate the Japanese from the American Islands.

The Japanese have added 2,500,440 pounds of explosives since they occupied Attu and Kiska early in June, 1942.

A returning pilot who has flown over Kiska since last July said the Japanese heavy and light gunfire was the heaviest yet. More lead was thrown into the air at us today than a month ago and it was more deadly."

A minute study of aerial photographs shows the Japanese have more gun emplacements in Kiska and Attu today than they had March 1.
